

AfriGIS Mobile Maps

Interactive maps now on your phone!

AfriGIS Mobile Maps is a complete interactive mapping application for your mobile phone. The application is a Java Mobile Edition (J2ME) client installed on your phone that uses the AfriGIS MapServer via the mobile internet. Using Mobile Maps you can view dynamic maps as well as satellite imagery of any location within South Africa.

The application is location aware and you can locate yourself using the cellular network's Location Based Services or the phone's GPS device (if available). Using your location, the user friendly and intuitive interface allows you to search for businesses and locations in your area. The built in route planner can then be used to calculate and display the driving directions from your current location to the selected business or location. The route planner can also be used to determine driving directions between two defined addresses.

It is also possible to send location information from a website to the Mobile Maps Inbox. This can typically be used to provide location information from the office to a mobile field force. Once received, the user can then determine turn by turn driving directions between his current or selected location, and the location information received in the Inbox - all this on his mobile phone. Users can also share location information by simply sending it to friends from the Mobile Maps application. Another very useful feature is to save favourite locations in Mobile Maps as "geographic bookmarks" for future use.

- Quick route planning and driving directions on your phone
- Send routes and addresses to your Inbox
